FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CME Outfitters to Host Medical Meeting on Immunosuppression in Transplant Medicine

CME Outfitters is proud to announce a live symposium at the Sheraton Boston Hotel in Boston, MA on June 12, 2016 on Immunosuppression in Transplant Medicine.

BETHESDA, Maryland (May 20, 2016) – CME Outfitters (CMEO), a leading accredited provider in continuing medical education, announces a live symposium being held in Boston, MA at the Sheraton Boston Hotel this June 12, 2016 featuring expert faculty on the topic of Immunosuppression in Transplant Medicine.

Currently, the goal of transplant medicine and immunology is to create strategies to extend the life and functionality of every allograft. While outcomes of renal and liver transplantation have improved, allograft loss is still a substantial issue that is associated with increased morbidity, mortality, and costs. One of the primary challenges in transplant medicine is identifying the pathologic pathways responsible for allograft loss and developing therapeutic inventions. Providing education to clinicians involved in transplants regarding regular evaluation of all aspects of post-transplant care that can contribute to allograft dysfunction or loss can improve the patient-provider dialogue to foster adherence to treatment and careful monitoring of medication levels to maintain quality of life.

This CME Outfitters 60-minute symposium features two expert faculty members - Dr. Flavio G. Vincenti and Dr. Lewis W. Teperman - presenting the latest evidence on antibody-mediated complications, regular monitoring strategies to optimize immunosuppression, and engaging patients in discussions to promote adherence and improve outcomes.
